

The Start of a New Tradition
By Lauren Watson

On Friday, October 23rd, the high schoolers embarked on a fun filled day of competing against grades, Homecoming Wars. The games varied from rock paper scissors, to air mattress slide, which was a fan favorite. Classes were awarded points depending on their overall finish in the game. The competition was fierce but when the final points were tallied, the seniors would be the winners of the Homecoming Wars trophy! The juniors came in a close second followed by sophomores and in fourth place were the freshman.

The football players competed in their annual cheer/ dance off, and the crowd favorite was the sophomore-junior dance. Also, for the homely-coming competition, Rashad Smith, a sophomore, became our new reigning” queen”.

At the beginning of the week, each class was asked to decorate a door centered around the homecoming theme “In Our Jaguar Era”. The clear winner of the door contest was the junior class. Their door was definitely a student and teacher favorite because it featured our very own Coach Bonnifay.

Overall, homecoming week was a blast! Everyone enjoyed dressing up each day and showing their school spirit. All of the highschoolers agreed that starting the homecoming wars tradition is something they will look forward to every year.
